

Evaluation Editor

Your job reviews the evaluation component of the WebQuest. Does the evaluation make sense in terms of the task? Is the evaluation one that asks for higher order thinking skills, and not just a "fill in the blanks" answer? Could the students in your grade level complete the project listed in the evaluation?

	Excellent 4	Average 3	Needs Improvement 2	Poor 1
Compatibility	The evaluation matches the task. The steps in the task make sense in terms of the evaluation	The evaluation is related to the task component, with some form of the evaluation unrelated	The evaluation is not measuring the goals in the task	No evaluation methods
Higher order skills	Higher order thinking skills are present in the evaluation	Higher order thinking skills are used in some form of the evaluation	The evaluation doesn't contain a project for the students to complete to show understanding of the task	The evaluation is similar to a "fill in the blanks" paper, with no higher order thinking skills
Project	The project is creative and gets students interested. In includes many components for students to apply knowledge, and involves cooperative learning	The project involves cooperative learning and is fun for the students	The project can be completed individually and not requiring a great deal of thought	No project
Creativity	The WebQuest evaluation is creative in nature, possibly putting the student in the role of someone else.	The evaluation project allows students to assume new roles, and is exciting for the student	The project is not creative. It may call for a student to write a report	No evaluation project. Students fill in a worksheet

Return to WebQuest Home Page